Alexis Acar and Anthony Ingargiola

Research

By utilizing various websites, such as Playbill.com and Backstage.com we were able to obtain up to date audition info. Thus, making it applicable to real life situations. In addition we worked with a number of websites regarding apartment listings, including location, and pricing. Transportation was later taken into account, due to ever present need of available transportation when living in New York City.

Conclusion

Three apartments were located fulfilling the overall goal of the project. Not all are in the relative areas analyzed, but they are all in the city.

and apartments were later used to locate exact apartments within the audition locations.
